SENIOR PLAY "At the End of the Rainbow" Friday Evening, December 17th

The Senior Class of the Yale High School is the largest in the history of the school. This class has selected for their class play, "At the End of the Rainbow," a comedy calling for twenty characters, so that nearly the entire class appears in the cast. They have been drilling now for several weeks and will, without doubt give as good an account of themselves as the senior classes of past years.

Synopsis of the Play

The scenes of the play are located in a college town. The students are practicing for a football game with a rival college team and much interest in the outcome is shown. It develops that Douglas Brown, a football expert from another college, is in town on business connected with his father's estate and, to distract attention, enters this college. Phyllis Lane induces him to consent to play with the team at the request of the captain, a love romance being created thereby.

Robert Preston, a lawyer, secretly loves Marion Dayton, his ward, and she reciprocates. He intrusts the combination of his safe to her and tells her of an important packet of papers lying therein. Louise Ross and her mother, Mrs. Brown, stepmother of Douglas, learn that a second will, disinheriting them, has been found and is among the papers in Preston's safe. They plot to gain possession of the documents at a masked ball given by Marion. Louise wears a costume identical with that of Marion's, deceives Preston, learns the combination of the safe and obtains the papers by the aid of Jack Austin, unaware of the fact that the original packet has been removed by Preston and other documents substituted. The "Imp," a girl sees and recognizes her.

Preston enters and recognizes Jack, who is assisting Louise in the belief that she is Marion, and convinced that Jack meditates robbery, upbraids him. Marion enters and comprehending the situation as she fancies, she shields Jack by assuming the guilt. Her innocence is finally established by the "Imp," who exposes Louise. Meanwhile Douglas wins the game for the team and realizes that he loves Phyllis, but when he learns that she has trifled with him, he becomes cool. This however passes away and happiness follows.

When Marion's self-sacrificing effort to save Jack is brought to Preston's attention through the exposure of Louise's duplicity, he discovers that he loves her, and their dream of the pot of gold at "the end of the rainbow" is happily realized.

GRADE NOTES

Miss Roy says that a number of her pupils are absent from sickness.

The 1st grade is decorating for Christmas.

Bernie and Evelyn Jones are back after a long illness.

The 5th grade is also decorating for Christmas.

The 6th grade has the flag this week.

Morely Osborne of Standish H. S. was a visitor last week.

Congressman Cranton has given our school library six fine volumes of the 6th Congressional records.

Mr. Reynolds enjoyed the fine skating the other night.

The American History people are studying the lives of Hamilton and Jefferson, while the Modern History class are beginning the study of the Renaissance.

Our chemists are interested to note that Rex is working over the production of a new fruit called gunzoalas.

Muriel says that she prefers people with dark hair and eyes.

Mr. Drouyer says "Sit up! Your face is homely enough without showing the top of your head."

Miss McCall says that she and Miss Ritchie are going to attend a play in Brown City, Friday night.

Miss Ritchie's rhetorical division will give a Christmas program the last day of school.

What happens next week? Senior play! How is it going to be? Great!

Who should come? Everybody!

What are the most common things in the universe? Ans. Hilton's name in the paper, a Junior class meet, and a Ford car (not automobile).

The girls report that they are expecting to enjoy themselves at the H. S. party it is rumored the boys are to give.

Matty says that he wouldn't mind taking a girl home if it were not for some one seeing him.

Mr. Drouyer to Katherine McKibney: "You would like Nell better if he had not said that, wouldn't you?" Kate: "Yes." Moral: "Now I've got you something nice, haven't I?"

From the appearance of Victor L's report card and the disappearance of Donald's, Mr. Reynolds has come to the conclusion that he will send the next to their mothers by special delivery.

We wonder what excuse Frank D.

will have, after the Senior play, for staying in Yale over night.

Isabel M., helping to pick out Junior play, "I like this one," namely, "Sweethearts."

Is the climate near Brooklyn or the south end of the school room any better than general conditions? Ask Sam.

On Friday evening, Dec. 17th, the seniors present their play, "At the End of the Rainbow." The cast of characters consists of twenty students, who are well fitted for each part. Merle Heath as Marion shows great ability to carry out emotional parts, while Bertha Cline as the Imp carries out her part to perfection (maybe naturally). The antics of the newly married couple, with their maid and butler, furnish much comedy throughout. The introduction and songs keep up the enthusiasm of the plot.

Who is our Sophomore poet? The following line selection was rendered this week:

It may be that earth's tomorrow
Holds for us no resting place;
It may be that only in Heaven
I shall see you face to face;
But when memory takes a pleasure
trip,
And the choice of pathway comes,
I choose the road to yesterday,
When you and I were chums.

Medical Society Election.

The regular monthly banquet and social meeting of the St. Clair County Medical Society was held at the Elks' temple, Port Huron, last Thursday evening.

There was a good representation from all parts of the county. Dr. Heavenrich gave an excellent talk on "The Business Side of the Profession."

Following a short business session a general get-together time was enjoyed. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Dr. Alex. McKenzie; vice-pres., Dr. W. H. Morris; sec.-treas., Dr. W. W. Ryerson.

McDuff-Monroe Nuptials.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Mortimer, Wednesday evening, Dec. 1, at 7 o'clock, when Miss Alice McDuff and Mr. John Monroe were united in holy wedlock by Rev. Geo. Woolcock.

The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums, yellow and white being the colors of the evening. The bride was becomingly dressed in navy blue crepe d'chene and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. Only nearest of friends were present at the ceremony.—St. Clair Press.
